Accounting or accountancy is the measurement, processing, and communication of financial information about economic entities such as businesses and corporations. The modern field was established by the Italian mathematician Luca Pacioli in 1494. Accounting, which has been called the "language of business", measures the results of an organization's economic activities and conveys this ...

Earlier today, we reported on the withdrawal of a paper from Research Policy, an Elsevier journal. The notice didn't give a reason, just that the "article has been withdrawn at the request of the authors and editor." We've seen a number of such opaque withdrawals from Elsevier journals, and thought it was worth some exploration. While Elsevier's policy here on such withdrawals is ...

The SEC and PCAOB jointly released a statement on the challenges they face with respect to access to China to regulate U.S. listed Chinese companies. There is nothing new in this statement, but it is noteworthy because of its existence and timing. For those have not been following the issue, the PCAOB is mandated by Sarbanes-Oxley to inspect accounting firms that audit U.S. listed companies

Alas, I have not posted very much of late. But, it's only because I am trying to find as much time as possible to write my book describing a simple, comprehensive and robust basis of accounting that any public company could use; and that would produce more relevant information for investors than U.S. GAAP or IFRS. Progress has been slower than I had hoped, but to-date I have drafted the
